1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mankoff US 2003/0028518A1 (hereinafter "Mankoff"). Mankoff discloses a paperless coupon redemption system in which a coupon is associated with a customer's credit card [0015]. It is disclosed that the merchant sends data of the purchase to the card-matching agent, who would then match the credit card transaction to the appropriate consumer's coupon database in order to determine whether a discount should be applied. If the conditions of the offer are met, a discount would be applied and a notice of the discount to the consumer could be delivered to the retail location itself at the time of purchase. There is disclosed a display in which the coupon offer may be displayed [0031]. Mankoff does not specifically disclose that the coupons are presented to the consumer at the register. However, such "at register" offers are old and well known in the art. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include known "at register" coupon offers in the system of Mankoff, thereby enticing the consumer to purchase store selected items. If not inherent, it is also old and well known to provide the cost of an item and its discount on a receipt, i.e. display the cost and discount. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to display the cost and discount on an item in order to inform the user of the actual purchase price for accounting purposes. The credit card identifier is inherently detected when the credit card is presented for use.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US2003/0130891A1, US2003/0200146A1 and US Patent 5513102 all disclose credit card specific discount programs at POS terminals.
